BEEFRIENDLY

The Clos Lardière was created in 2015, after the repurchase of abandoned land, a building in size stones and a wooded park. Formerly farm farm, the retraining of this place into wine property allows it to relive in a village near Saint Emilion, that of Saint Sulpice de Faleyrens. The majestic green oaks, more than hundred years present on small property provides wisdom instead and an amazing fauna and floristic diversity. The farmhouse dating from the French Revolution is now transformed into a house and welcomes visible vineyards. We want to maintain this place and vigorously keep traditions within the wine property. Regarding the name, we chose Saint Emilion Grand Cru in relation to the plantation density (8,900 feet/ha) of our plots, leading us to a production of a quality wine.
