HAUTE VALEUR ENVIRONNEMENTALE

"We know that one of the ancestors of the Arteau-Bouyer family was a Jurat of Saint-Émilion in the Middle Ages," said Alexia and Pierre Bouyer who have been at the head of family property since 1999 and who perpetuate the spirit of their ancestors through the heritage entrusted to them. Composed at the origin of 13.5 ha in the town of Saint-Christophe-des-Bardès, the vineyards have reached a little more than 18 ha of area. They have undergone significant restructuring; increasing the plantation density to 9,000 feet per hectare, introducing soil work and sustainable soil management. The vineyards of the Clos de la Cure consist of 7 hectares on the most beautiful clay-limestone soils, in the municipalities of Saint-Étienne de Lisse and Saint-Christophe des Bardès,
